The response rate for postcards sent to a home address is 5.1% with a Return on Investment of 29%.<sup>1</sup>

Oversize postcards provide more space for your message, and stand out from other direct mail pieces.

Direct mail particularly resonates with Gen Z because they have grown up with digital messaging, and mail presents something unique to them.<sup>3</sup>

84% of millennials take time to look through their mail, and 57% have made purchases based on direct mail offers.<sup>2</sup>

GET THE WORD OUT WITH POSTCARDS!

When it comes to promotion, a little custom postcard can go a long way in getting the word out. This handy item can be used in so many ways – direct mail campaigns, box inserts, street marketing and more. And customers or prospects can keep all your information handy in one convenient, portable package.

Postcards are a cost-effective way to get people to check out your website or your brick-and-mortar location. They offer a tangible and highly visual alternative to a digital-weary audience – boosting engagement and holding their attention much longer.
